JOHN MORRIS KILLED.
Old Engineer Falls in Rear of Backing Engine.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) ASHVILLE, N. C., June 19.—John Morris, an engineer of the Asheville division of the Southern Railway, was yesterday killed by an engine in the freight yards of the Southern here yesterday morning.

Mr. Morris's engine was standing on a side track, when the engineer swung from the cab to the ground to do some work about the engine. Just as Mr. Morris jumped from his engine a locomotive came backing down the track from the passenger station. It was almost opposite the engine in charge of Mr. Morris when the latter swung to the ground. The engine alighted he either slipped or lost his balance, and fell across the parallel track, directly in front of the backing engine, which was too close to the unfortunate man to be stopped. The wheels passed over Mr. Morris's body just above the chest, almost severing the body, killing him instantly.

John F. Morris was one of the oldest engineers on the Asheville division. He was fifty years of age, and for years ran one of the switching engines in the local yards. He left a regular run several years ago, and although repeatedly offered a regular run on any of the lines of this division, he declined, preferring to work in the yards here, that he might remain with his family.

BERWIND MUTINEERS ORDERED TO BE HUNG
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) WILMINGTON, N. C., June 19.—In the United States District Court here today, Judge Thomas R. Purnell sentenced the negroes, Arthur Adams and Robert Sawyer, charged with murder and mutiny aboard the Philadelphia schooner Harry Berwind, the date of their execution being named as Friday, August 17th. The defense in the case was conducted by the United States Supreme Court, but a new trial had been denied them. Henry Scott, the third of the mutineers, who was relieved by the President, pending the appeal of the other negroes, will hang on July 6th.

Hon. George Rountree, of counsel for the mutineers, denied to the court that he believed the negroes innocent, that the false testimony, given by the condemned mutineer Scott, and influenced public opinion were responsible for their conviction.

Before sentencing the negroes, Judge Purnell stated that the court prayed that if not guilty, some means would arise to divert the negroes from the gallows of the condemned men. The court ordered the bodies of the negroes turned over to the University of North Carolina for scientific purposes should they not be claimed by relatives or the respective governments of the men by ten days' notice.

Scott is an American, but Adams and Sawyer are British subjects. All three are heavily manacled in jail here and under a death watch.

While the divorce bill was pending, Senator McCune took the public eye all over the United States by introducing the famous anti-living and anti-filting bill, which provided heavy penalties for such conduct in the presence of a jury.

He has since been known as the anti-living statesman.
